

Job Board Workflow Design and examples

Employer

1. Employer signs up for user account

Examples of Initial Sign up:

We can use these as templates. My personal choice would be GitHub sign up.

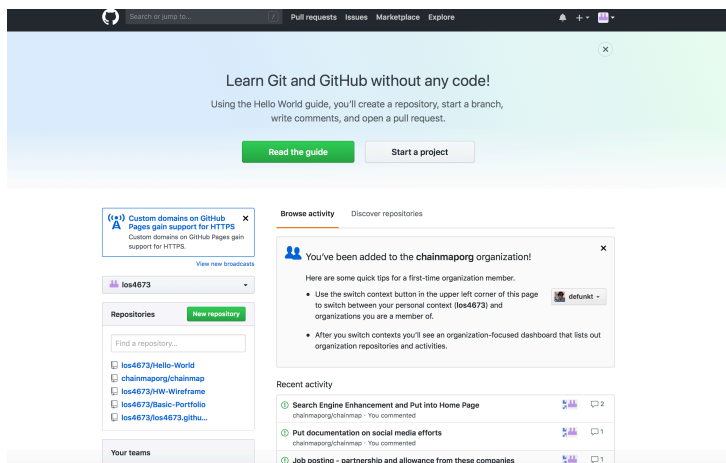

Should have a pop up if they want to register their company.

(information they need to fill out is outlined in separate article )

2. After sign up they should automatically go to their profile. Profile template should look like this:

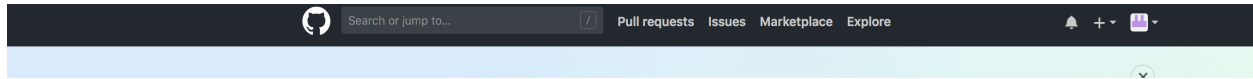

Break down of profile:

This should be the template for general overview. Browse activity should include basic relevant information that they might be interested in and current job post. Developer side should include job saved and browsing history.

Nav Bar:

Top bar should look the same as it is now with current ChainMap website but should now include profile (right side example) and “Job Board” tab

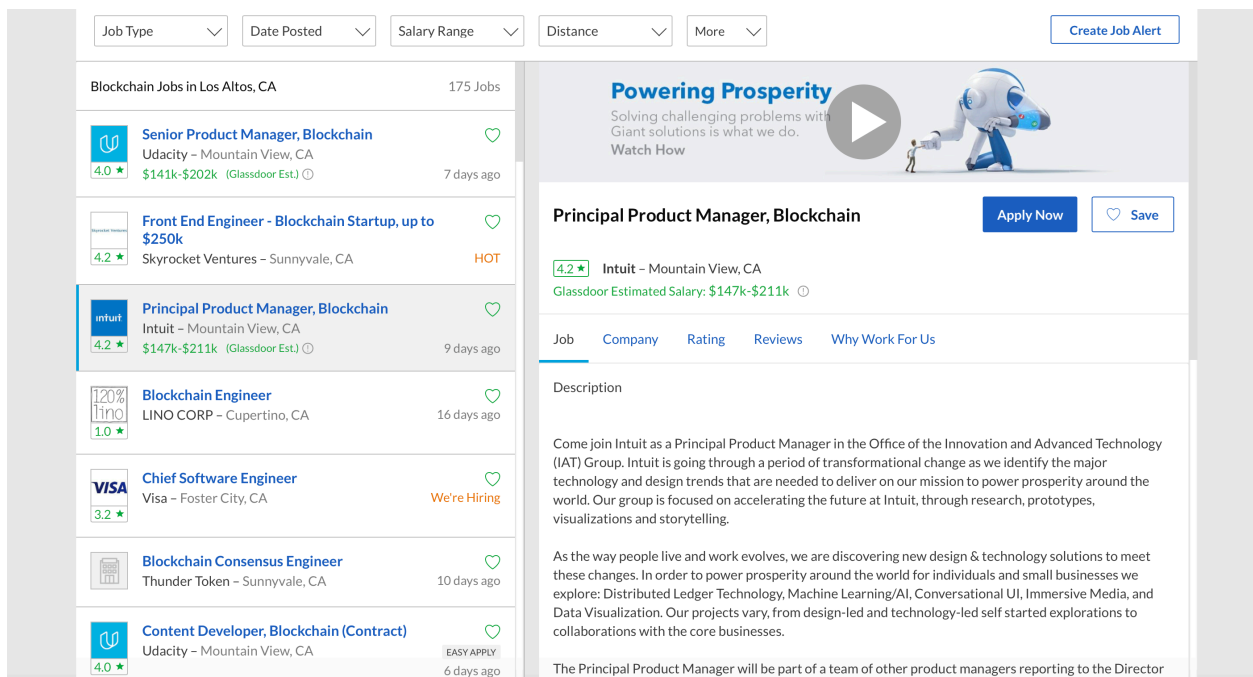

3. When company/Developer clicks on Job board. The template for the “Job board” page should look like this:

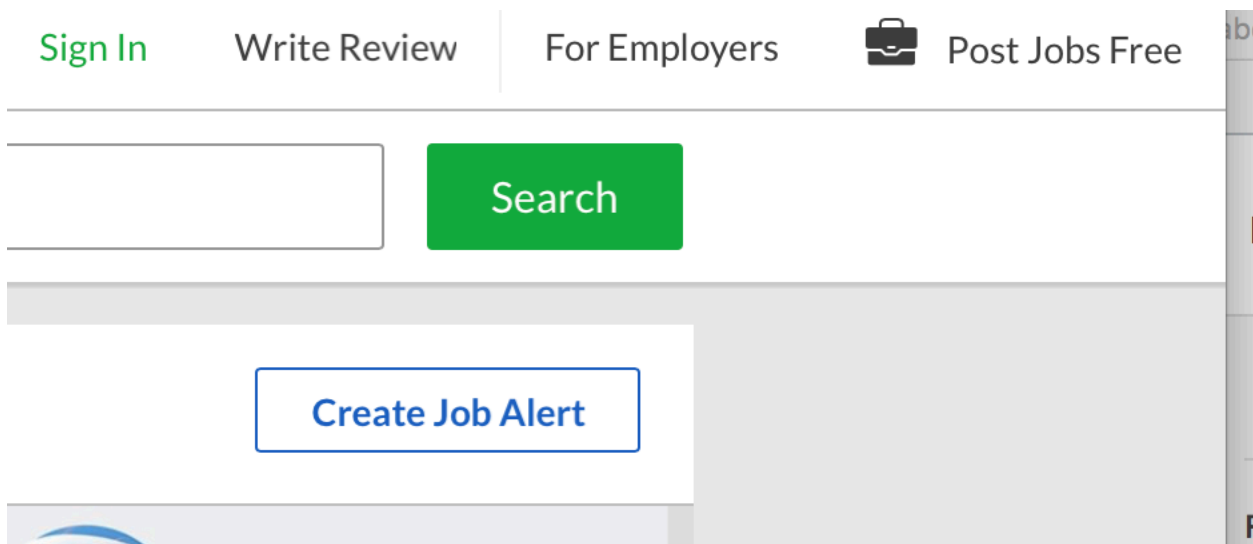

Key Aspects:

Job post on right.

- Company is able to post new job directly from this page. Button should look like this:

4. When Company clicks on add “new Job”

The template for filling in information should look like this:

Note: Some information should be pre-filled from their original profile set up.

This screenshot shows the left portion of a web form for adding a new job. It includes several input fields and dropdown menus. The 'Job title' field is at the top, followed by 'Job Type' (with 'Employee' selected) and 'Job Status' (with 'Full Time' selected). Below these are 'Company Name', 'Company Industry' (with '~SELECT~' selected), and 'Company Size' (with '~SELECT~' selected). The 'Address' section includes fields for 'Address', 'Zip Code', and 'City'. The 'State' field is a dropdown menu with '~SELECT~' selected. At the bottom, there is a 'Compensation' section with a note: 'Jobs with compensation info get up to 40% more responses!'.

This screenshot shows the right portion of the web form. It features a large 'Job Description' text area with a rich text editor toolbar at the top. Below the text area is a link to 'upload your job description (doc, docx, txt, rtf files only)'. The 'Company Logo (Optional)' section includes an 'Upload a Logo' link. The 'Apply Methods' section contains a text input field for an email address and a 'Recommended' link.

5. Once employer fills in necessary information they are redirected to job board and new job is added to list.
